

Karen Callebaut

Karen Callebaut is a technical manager at the Environmental Department of the Antwerp Port Authority. She is responsible for stimulating energy and climate initiatives in the port community, including sustainable development of existing and new port areas.

She holds more than 10 years of experience in environmental project management. Before joining the Antwerp Port Authority she worked in consultancy, focusing on various topics amongst which climate change, environmental risk assessment and environmental standards.

Karen holds a Master Degree in Bio Engineering, from University of Ghent.

